OPENING PARTY

"THAT THEY MIGHT HAVE JOY"

In keeping with the theme of the evening, "that they might have joy," the Seminary started the year off with a bang! First we were entertained in the auditorium by the Terry Sisters and the Vallevmen. After the program, there was a dance in the Seminary building. Refreshments were served, and everyone there had a joyous time!

Seminary Starts New Traditions

The studentbody of Wasatch is well aware of the many new traditions being set at the new school. But many students are not aware of what goes on at the new, red brick building east of the school.

Here also traditions are being set by the capable leaders which are at the head of the studentbody. Jason Moulton, Beth Jones, Ed Thacker, Becky Fugate and Jody English are in the process of setting these long-awaited traditions. They are assisted by the class representatives who are Bob Hicken, Ronnie Davis and Kraig Ford.

This year for the first time the Seminary is organizing a singing group to accompany speakers at various Seminary functions. This group will be conducted by Bruce Hutchinson, with Larry Moulton as an assistant.

Another first this year will be a Seminary yearbook. This supplement will contain pictures of each class plus class representatives, studentbody officers, faculty and the various activities. A contest is underway for the naming of this supplement.

The name that is chosen for the yearbook will be used as the theme at various occasions throughout the year such as graduation and the Spring Banquet. All seminary studentbody members are urged to participate in the contest. The winner will receive a free yearbook.

The Seminary choir was one of the new things which added a lot to the Seminary. The choir accompanied speakers at various Seminary programs in different wards. They also sang at Stake Conference. Their final performance was at the Dedication of the Seminary.

The choir was very ably conducted by Bruce Hutchinson and Larry Moulton, and accompanied by Doreen Pugh and Betty Lou Duke. Congratulations to the choir for doing such a fine job!

The winner of the contest for this year's theme was Jon Fish with his entry "from thence let them journey."

SEMINARY CHOIR

Bring out the alto a little more, girls! What happened to the tenors?

I think we should sing another song. This one has four sharps.

Get ready, get set, GO!

Winner Named in Thanksgiving Theme Contest

Do you "thank your lucky stars that it's over" or do you kneel and thank God?" So wrote Neil Price, winner of the annual Seminary Thanksgiving Essay Contest.

Each year the Seminary sponsors a contest encouraging the students to think seriously about the true meaning of Thanksgiving. Neil Price, son of Bishop and Mrs. Vernon Price was announced the winner. He will be awarded a Grade A Turkey, donated by the Heber City Exchange. Below is the winning essay:

THE TRUE MEANING OF THANKSGIVING

Did you ever stop in this busy time-consuming rush of problems and events to consider the true meaning of the holiday we celebrate the last Thursday of November? Or do you just call your grocer to send you the largest Grade A Turkey in his counter to grace your bounteous table, then bake, cook, and fuss until the day is over and when you sit down, thank the lucky stars it's over for you once more?

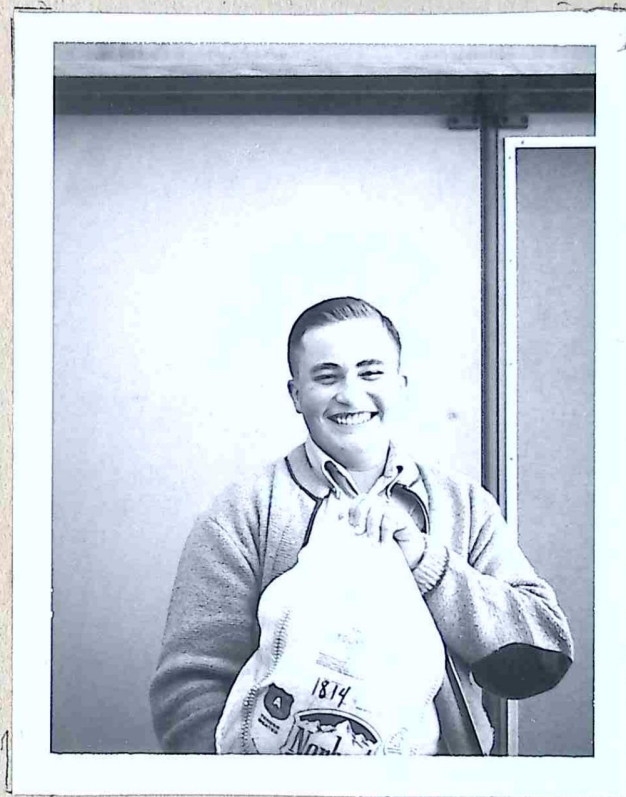

More than three centuries ago, a small colony of weary pilgrims landed on these shores where they had been driven to find a peaceful place where they might worship as they desired. They were thankful for this privilege and through the years, heroic people have maintained this freedom for us. Do you really appreciate this?

This nation has grown from a handful of freedom-loving people, to a mighty country of strength. Her land is productive, her people educated and courageous, her government willed by the people. Convenience, skill, and luxury are all about us. Can you imagine what it would be like without these?

Do we as people still love and serve each other? We must remember, that without these, we become selfish and unreasonable. Life becomes dull and meaningless, and the happiness those pilgrims felt for each other, and their maker will be for naught.

"The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof," is a quotation we must remember. All that we have, all that we do, and all that we are, is but by the grace of God. This fullness and inheritance will remain ours, only if we observe the law, appreciate it, and give thanks for the privilege of living here upon the earth.

So at the near close of the year, let's take inventory of ourselves. Have we made the world a better place this year by being kind, considerate, and understanding? Have we lived each new day better than the last? Have we been honest in our toil and given full measure in all we did? Have we given strength to the weak? If so, then we have been expressing gratitude every day which is the true meaning of Thanksgiving.

In November, the parents of each of the students received a letter expressing appreciation for that student being in Seminary. This year was the first time something like this had been done, and we felt that it was a success.

WASATCH HIGH SEMINARY

Heber, Utah
November 14, 1964

Dear Brother and Sister Clark:

We are happy to send you this letter of deep appreciation. We are glad that Joene is in our class and we are most desirous of being helpful in these impressionable years in helping to direct her thinking and acting, particularly in her spiritual development.

With you, we too love the Lord and bear witness of His goodness. We are so grateful for the choice messages we receive from our Prophet and the Apostles and also from the wonderful books we study. We heartily commend the study of these things to all people.

May we ask something very special of you? It will cost you two to four minutes of your valuable time and time is the essence of progress. Note: Ask her "How was your day at school?" Then give her a few seconds to answer. "And Seminary?" Please encourage her to mention specifically the significant theme, objective and application in the lesson for that day.

We trust that your child will interest you in her journal as a guide in her discussions with you.

We thank you for this opportunity to be of some help to her and wish you God's speed in this challenging part you play in bringing up a splendid member of the church.

May your home be a happy one and happier still because of this participation.

AROUND CHRISTMAS TIME

The Seminary students were subs for Santa Claus, and sent gifts of Books of Mormon and other things to Indian students in the Seminary at Tuba City, Arizona. We received this letter from Bro. Rex Reeve, one of our former Seminary teachers, and presently a coordinator in the Tuba City area.

On the following page are pictures, sent to us by Bro. Reeve, of some of the Indian Students

Dear Students:

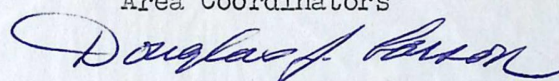

We would like to thank you and your faculty for the happiness that you were able to bring into the lives of our Indian students living here in the dormitories.

We have about 681 LDS Seminary students who, through your kindness and love, were given a much happier Christmas than they would have otherwise had.

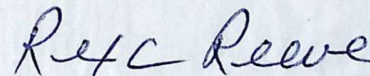

Thanks again.

Sincerely,

Area Coordinators

CHRISTMAS

Hey! Look what I found. This will look just great over the door!

Early one morning Bro. Call, Kraig, Edd, Jason and Bro. Firth went to get a Christmas tree to decorate the Seminary. When they got back with the tree, all the officers busied themselves decorating the tree and the foyer. When we were through decorating, we had a delicious breakfast of sourdough pancakes, thanks to Sister Call and Sister Firth and Sister Conners.

A little to the left, Jason. Yeah, that's it.

Make Honor The Standard

THE IMPORTANCE OF HONOR

Ernest L. Wilkinson

Glade Hunsaker, BYU, introduced the honor system to the students of the Wasatch Stake Seminary at a recent fireside. The purpose of the honor system is to promote and establish honor, in all phases to the students of the Seminary and the high school. By installing this system in the curriculum of the studentbody, we hope to instill within the students the responsibility and value of their cherished honor—"for honor is like the single eye, which cannot suffer the least impurity without damage, or like the precious stone, the price of which is lessened by a single flaw."

Feb. 8-Feb. 12 was set aside as Honor Week by honor council members and seminary teachers, Brothers Firth and Call, wherein a special plea is urged to remember our honor and uphold it, not only during this week but every day.

HONOR COUNCIL.

This was the first year the Seminary had tried the Honor System. Bob Hicken and Vickie Edwards introduced the system to all the Seminary students and prepared the honor code cards for their approval.

The Honor Council planned various ways to promote honor. They planned a special honor week during which the importance of honor was stressed. A small wheelbarrow full of apples was placed in the foyer of the building with a sign by it which read "Have an apple! Only 10¢--if you're on your honor."

The basis of the symbols on the card is a knight, symbolizing virtue, truth, and honor. From the knight's shield we have taken the cross. On the is an arrow which is straight and true; a lion's head symbolizing the strength and courage of a lion; and a scroll symbolizing the wisdom of the wise. The theme of our honor cards -- "Make Honor the Standard"

THE STUDENT HONOR CODE

HONOR IS NOT SOMETHING THAT A PERSON PUTS ON OR OFF AS A CONVENIENCE. IT IS NOT SOMETHING THAT APPLIES JUST TO A CLASSROOM. IT IS SOMETHING THAT SHOULD BE AN INTEGRAL PART OF EVERY PERSON'S LIFE. IT APPLIES TO ALL OF YOUR ACTIONS, VALUES, AND ATTITUDES.

THE SPECIFIC STATEMENTS OF THE CODE WHICH APPLY ON OR OFF CAMPUS ARE:

A. ACADEMIC:

1. REFRAINING FROM GIVING OR RECEIVING AID IN EXAMINATIONS OR IN THE PREPARATION OF INDIVIDUAL WORK DONE IN OR OUT OF THE CLASSROOM, UNLESS THE INSTRUCTOR HAS SPECIFIED THAT GIVING OR RECEIVING AID IN SUCH WORK IS PERMISSIBLE.

B. NON-ACADEMIC:

1. ABSTINENCE FROM THE USE OF TOBACCO AND ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES.
2. RESPECT FOR THE PROPERTY RIGHTS OF OTHERS.
3. INDIVIDUAL INTEGRITY AND MORALITY IN ALL ASPECTS OF LIFE.

C. ASSISTING FELLOW STUDENTS TO LIVE THE CODE:

1. WE HAVE A MORAL RESPONSIBILITY TO HELP OTHERS TO UNDERSTAND THE HONOR CODE AND TO MAINTAIN A HIGH STANDARD OF HONOR.

THE HONOR CODE APPLIES TO ALL STUDENTS, BOTH MEMBERS AND NON MEMBERS OF THE L.D.S. CHURCH, AND EXTENDS TO A STUDENT'S LIFE, BOTH ON AND OFF CAMPUS

Honor Week

POSTER CONTEST WINNERS— Named as the winners of the Honor Week poster contest were Virginia and Patricia Crook.

"Honor Week" Is Observed at Wasatch Seminary

"If seeds of honor you will sow, a greater person you will grow". These words written on a burlap sack which developed into a very creative and original poster, portraying Honor Week, garnered 1st place honors to Patricia and Virginia Crook, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clark J. Crook in the past honor poster contest.

EASTER PARTY

On the 17th of April, the Seminary held an early morning breakfast and Easter Egg Hunt for the closing party. After everyone had eaten enough sourdough pancakes, they started off in search of the clues that would lead them to the "Grand-daddy of all Easter Eggs." Linda Kohler and Margo Christensen found the giant Easter Egg.

Earlier that morning, Kraig Ford and Edd Thacker were the Easter Bunnies that hid all the eggs.

One, two, three, FLIP!

Are there any more pancakes? This is only my eleventh one.

Spring Banquet

On Saturday, May 8, the Spring Banquet was held in the new Third Ward cultural hall. The Sophomores, under the direction of Ronnie Davis, were in charge of the banquet. They did an outstanding job. We were entertained by two people from the B.Y.U. Third year graduates received their pins, and fourth year graduates received their guards.

President Call, President Whiting, and President Carlile were present. Bishops from the various wards were also there.

After dinner we had a testimony meeting. It was one of the highlights of the year, truly a spiritual experience.

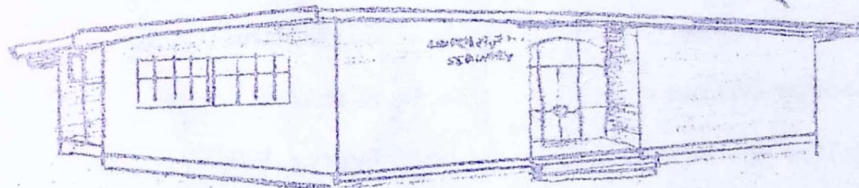

The overall design of the pin is a shield which symbolizes truth. The gold temple symbolizes family life. The 'S' stands for Seminary. The white enamel background stands for virtue. The eleven blue stones enhance the beauty of the pin.
